

Tom Bond

'Universal West'

Focus Catalogue

January 2019

About the Artist:

Tom Bond is an illustrator, designer, and multidisciplinary artist. His work includes gallery shows, commercial design, murals, and installations. Tom's home and studio are in Denver, Colorado, but he finds most inspiration and source material through travels and life outdoors. Tom studied at the University of Colorado and Goldsmiths, University of London, before spending several years in New York City and eventually returning to Colorado.

"In this work I'm trying to distil personal, historical, and musical references, as well as travel stories and myths of the American West into a language of icons, symbols, and patterns that can hopefully hint at something specific while still allowing for broader, more universal, interpretation."
