AIKO:

Artist - Born in Tokyo, Japan 1975

AIKO, Lady Aiko, is a Street Art champion and is widely considered one of the most prolific, talented and recognizable female artists working in the game.

She is a founding and former member of the seminal Street

AIKO was born in Tokyo, Japan and has resided in New York since the mid 90's .

She received her BFA at Tokyo Zokei University, in the focus fields of graphic design and filmmaking and an MFA at the New School New York, with honourable mention in Media Studies.

AIKO utilizes a myriad of materials in her mixed media work, including stencil, spray paint, acrylics, latex enamels, oil bars, coffee stains, rhinestones, glitter and pigments. Through years of living in the U.S. AIKO discovered American contemporary art movements such as Abstractionism , POP Art , Graffiti and Street Art. Her pieces are an innovative combination of these forms with Japanese traditional aesthetic in an innovative way. It tells a story playfully, portraying femininity, sexuality and beauty of human life.

AIKO is well respected among her peers and has shown alongside other greats in the Graffiti and Street Art genres; Lady Pink, CRASH, FUTURA, Doze Green, Banksy, Shepard Fairey, SWOON, Miss Van and Martha Cooper to name a few..

Some of her vibrant, skillfully executed large scale indoor and outdoor works include the Wynwood Wall Project (curated by Jeffrey Deitch) in Miami in 2009, and commission pieces for the Standard Hotel on both U.S. coasts in 2010.

Her works have been exhibited at the MACRO Future Rome Italy, Shanghai MOCA China, Brooklyn Museum NY, PS1 MOMA as well as major museums and galleries in the US, Europe and Asia.
